Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The specification does not disclose the nature of the input [of the transfer (transmission) function] to permit calculation of the transfer function and, thus, the claims are not enabled. For example, one would need to know if the input was a step function or a pulse or some other for of input and, for example, if the input was a pulse, one would need to know things like the shape (impulse, triangle, haversine, etc.), amplitude, duration, phase, etc., none of which are disclosed.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed September 25, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The board rejection under 37 CFR 1.196(b) of the claims under 35 USC 112, first paragraph based on a lack of enabling disclosure is sustained.

Appellant has amended independent claim 1 by adding the limitation that the transmission function "having an input". Such amendment to the claims does not cure the enablement problem.

Second, Appellant contested the board's interpretation of Figure 2 as being an "output". Appellant argued that Figure 2 is a "teaching of the transmission function input". However, the specification merely refers to Figure 2 as "a collision signal curve". On page 3, lines 12-13, the specification describes Figure 2 as "a collision curve measured at a certain location in the vehicle as an example." More specifically, "Figure 2", as described on page 4, lines 2-3 of the specification, "is one such core signal filtered out of the measured collision signal". The specification further describes that the points in Figure 2 represent signal segment and that each signal segment is simulated by a transmission function in the z plane. Emphasis added. From the above description, Figure 2 is described as being an "output" rather than an "input" of the transmission function.

In light of the foregoing, the rejection under 35 USC 112, first paragraph as applied by the board under 37 CFR 1.196(b) is sustained. Accordingly, this office action is made final.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event,
